RI TRANSPARENCY REPORT

2014/15

Genesis Asset Managers

About this report

The PRI Reporting Framework is a key step in the journey towards building a common language and industry standard for reporting responsible investment (RI) activities. This RI Transparency Report is one of the key outputs of this Framework. Its primary objective is to enable signatory transparency on RI activities and facilitate dialogue between investors and their clients, beneficiaries and other stakeholders. A copy of this report will be publicly disclosed for all reporting signatories on the PRI website, ensuring accountability of the PRI Initiative and its signatories.

This report is an export of the individual Signatory organisation's response to the PRI during the 2014-15 reporting cycle. It includes their responses to mandatory indicators, as well as responses to voluntary indicators the signatory has agreed to make public. The information is presented exactly as it was reported. Where an indicator offers a response option that is multiple-choice, all options that were available to the signatory to select are presented in this report. Presenting the information exactly as reported is a result of signatory feedback which suggested the PRI not summarise the information. As a result, the reports can be extensive. However, to help easily locate information, there is a Principles index which highlights where the information can be found and summarises the indicators that signatories complete and disclose.

Understanding the Principles Index

The Principles Index summarises the response status for the individual indicators and modules and shows how these relate to the six Principles for Responsible Investment. It can be used by stakeholders as an 'at-a-glance' summary of reported information and to identify particular themes or areas of interest.

Indicators can refer to one or more Principles. Some indicators are not specific to any Principle. These are highlighted in the 'General' column. When multiple Principles are covered across numerous indicators, in order to avoid repetition, only the main Principle covered is highlighted.

All indicators within a module are presented below. The status of indicators is shown with the following symbols:

Symbol	Status
✓	The signatory has completed all mandatory parts of this indicator
☑	The signatory has completed some parts of this indicator
🔒	This indicator was not relevant for this signatory
-	The signatory did not complete any part of this indicator
Ⓜ	The signatory has flagged this indicator for internal review

Within the table, indicators marked in blue are mandatory to complete. Indicators marked in grey are voluntary to complete.

Genesis meaningfully incorporates social responsibility factors into its investment process because we believe that irresponsible behaviour by companies is incompatible with sustainable business success.

Our experience suggests that a crucial element of a successful long-term investment is an enlightened management team, which understands that a company's development requires a coalition between management, shareholders and workforce, and that no single one of these parties may derive excess benefit from the venture at the expense of the others. If management mistreats its workforce, it is also unlikely to understand the relationship of trust and responsibility that should exist between it and its minority shareholders, and such a company would not be attractive to Genesis. Please see LEI 02.1 for more details on our process.

Which particular aspect of ESG is most relevant to individual companies varies between countries, sectors and sub-sectors. For example, environmental considerations would be more critical when researching companies in the materials sector than it would for companies in the finance sector.

OA 03.3 Additional information. [Optional]

Our investment approach requires a high level of 'engagement' with investee and potential investee companies, on all aspects of their business, so we tend to have multiple instances of focused interaction with companies (which we would certainly regard as extensive). These meetings - approximately 1000 per year - however are intended to help us understand the entire business (which of course includes their approach to ESG issues) rather than to attempt to change their behaviour. Generally if we judge a particular business to be behaving inappropriately with respect to ESG issues we will simply not invest, or - if already invested in the company - we will disinvest, which we would be prepared to do even at a loss. (In many markets, China being a good example, selling is a much more effective approach than attracting attention through overt activism, which can be a bad thing in terms of access to company management and reputation.) 'Engagement' aiming to change management behaviour is not usually part of our approach, except by the less direct method of voting against inappropriate resolutions at shareholder meetings, a duty that we take very seriously. In many markets, it is common to have company AGMs and EGMs where insufficient information is disclosed about certain points ahead of the meeting - and in these cases we would vote against the relevant resolutions. In general we will communicate our views to the company in question.

OA 04.1 Indicate if your organisation has a policy on managing potential conflicts of interest in the investment process.

Yes

OA 04.2 Describe your policy on managing potential conflicts of interest in the investment process. [Optional]

Asset management is our sole business, and we do invest on a proprietary basis.

Genesis supports its investment activity through an active compliance culture that is aided by a corporate structure that minimises conflicts of interest and the creation and maintenance of a robust control environment throughout the Firm. In addition to the Code of Ethics, Genesis maintains a Conflicts of Interest document which provides a written record of actual and potential conflicts of interest involving a material risk of damage to Clients and the controls which are in place to mitigate these risks. Both documents are subject to ongoing updating as required and are reviewed as part of the compliance monitoring programme and also as part of the annual compliance review.

No, not formally. We consider that because ESG factors are such an integral part of our process that it is difficult to separate them for 'objectives' purposes. The 'objective' is to make sound investment decisions and generate performance; there are not goals to meet specifically in terms of ESG, or engagement.

LEA 04.3

Describe how you monitor and evaluate the progress of your engagement activities.

A successful outcome refers to achieving the objectives of the ESG 'engagement', and as noted above we would not typically seek to change management behaviour - rather, a successful outcome for us would be one where we feel we understand the business well enough to make a well-informed decision to invest in it. Naturally our assessment of ESG issues may prevent us from investing, which we would also regard as a successful outcome.
