RI TRANSPARENCY REPORT

2014/15

Karara Capital

About this report

The PRI Reporting Framework is a key step in the journey towards building a common language and industry standard for reporting responsible investment (RI) activities. This RI Transparency Report is one of the key outputs of this Framework. Its primary objective is to enable signatory transparency on RI activities and facilitate dialogue between investors and their clients, beneficiaries and other stakeholders. A copy of this report will be publicly disclosed for all reporting signatories on the PRI website, ensuring accountability of the PRI Initiative and its signatories.

This report is an export of the individual Signatory organisation's response to the PRI during the 2014-15 reporting cycle. It includes their responses to mandatory indicators, as well as responses to voluntary indicators the signatory has agreed to make public. The information is presented exactly as it was reported. Where an indicator offers a response option that is multiple-choice, all options that were available to the signatory to select are presented in this report. Presenting the information exactly as reported is a result of signatory feedback which suggested the PRI not summarise the information. As a result, the reports can be extensive. However, to help easily locate information, there is a Principles index which highlights where the information can be found and summarises the indicators that signatories complete and disclose.

Understanding the Principles Index

The Principles Index summarises the response status for the individual indicators and modules and shows how these relate to the six Principles for Responsible Investment. It can be used by stakeholders as an 'at-a-glance' summary of reported information and to identify particular themes or areas of interest.

Indicators can refer to one or more Principles. Some indicators are not specific to any Principle. These are highlighted in the 'General' column. When multiple Principles are covered across numerous indicators, in order to avoid repetition, only the main Principle covered is highlighted.

All indicators within a module are presented below. The status of indicators is shown with the following symbols:

Symbol	Status
✓	The signatory has completed all mandatory parts of this indicator
☑	The signatory has completed some parts of this indicator
🔒	This indicator was not relevant for this signatory
-	The signatory did not complete any part of this indicator
Ⓜ	The signatory has flagged this indicator for internal review

Within the table, indicators marked in blue are mandatory to complete. Indicators marked in grey are voluntary to complete.

Karara Capital is an active manager of Australian equity portfolios applying a fundamental approach to selecting stocks and building portfolios.

As an investment manager, Karara has a fiduciary responsibility to deliver the highest possible return on our client's investments while effectively managing all foreseeable risk factors.

In Karara's experience those companies that best manage environmental, social and corporate governance (ESG) risks, impacts, and opportunities are more financially sustainable in the longer term and positioned to deliver better long-term financial performance and returns to our clients.

Consequently, we believe that the ESG performance of the companies we invest in is not only a proxy for the quality of management and the sustainability of the business model, but is also relevant to the overall performance of our client's investment portfolios.

As a result, we believe that the integration of ESG into our investment analysis and investment decision-making is essential.

In addition to financial considerations Karara believes that companies, as a matter of principle, should act in a socially responsible manner. They should conduct their business in a way that recognizes their responsibilities to employees and other stakeholders, as well as to the broader community and the environment.

The purpose of our ESG policy is to formally outline Karara's commitment and principles in relation to the integration of ESG considerations into investment processes and decision making.

LEA 03.2

Describe how you identify and prioritise engagements.

As a matter of policy, Karara seeks to engage directly with company management and Board members on ESG issues to ensure the risks are being appropriately governed and to encourage change where we believe the company's management of an issue is potentially detrimental to shareholder value creation.

In our experience, constructive dialogue with company leadership is the most effective means of influencing corporate behaviour and ensuring that companies understand our perspective on good practice and governance as a means to enhance shareholder value.

Karara aims to meet at least once, and preferably twice each year, each company in which shares are held in Australian equity portfolios. More frequent company visits will be made if required. Meetings are usually undertaken by the analyst responsible for researching the company in question and one other team member.

Meetings are generally held with management representatives from the company; typically Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer, or Operational Head. However, if significant matters concerning Board structure, shareholders rights, executive remuneration or adherence to best ESG principles are at issue, contact will be made with independent or non executive directors or the Chairman of the Board as appropriate.

As part of this engagement process Karara will on occasion send a letter to the Chairman of a Board outlining our concerns or thoughts on a Corporate Governance issue related to that company. We find that irrespective of our shareholding size this formal communication is taken very seriously by boards and usually results in company initiated discussion, often directly with the Chairman.

We believe that our relationship with companies and our constructive engagement practices are not only a competitive advantage that underpin our standing as a shareholder of integrity, but are also intrinsic to building our understanding of a company and its management. Largely for this reason, Karara does not engage third parties to represent our views.

We reserve the right to sell a company's shares to protect our client's economic interests in the event we are dissatisfied with a company's response to managing the ESG risks facing it.

LEA 04.3

Describe how you monitor and evaluate the progress of your engagement activities.

Karara sees its role in exercising corporate governance responsibilities on client's behalf as having two broad dimensions. The first of these is a proactive and continuous process of monitoring corporate activities and raising key issues and concerns directly with the board and management of companies in which investments are held on client's behalf. The second is the exercise of proxy voting powers where we have been delegated by clients.

Karara's experience is that maintaining an ongoing dialogue with companies is generally a more effective means of adding value to clients' equity investments than the exercise of proxy voting powers. In some cases, Karara's interaction with companies prior to an AGM is aimed specifically at resolving a contentious issue before it becomes a damaging public proxy battle.

Karara aims to meet at least once, and preferably twice each year, each company in which shares are held in Australian equity portfolios. More frequent company visits will be made if required by circumstances. Meetings are usually undertaken by the analyst responsible for researching the company in question.

Meetings are generally held with management representatives from the company; for example Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer, or Operational Head. However, if significant matters concerning Board structure, shareholders rights, executive remuneration or adherence to best corporate governance principles are at issue, contact will be made with independent or non executive directors or the Chairman of the Board as appropriate.

We find that irrespective of our shareholding size this formal communication is taken very seriously by boards and usually results in company initiated discussion, often directly with the Chairman.

While boards get feedback through the proxy voting process, a yes/no vote provides only limited insight into shareholder views. We have found through long experience numerous meetings; we can often accomplish more through dialogue than through the voting process.

Where we are unable to achieve a satisfactory outcome from our engagement activities, we may choose to withhold support by exercising our right to vote against shareholder resolutions. As a matter of principle, we seek to communicate with a company prior to voting against a resolution, this is important in treating management with respect and being effective in our engagement activities.
