RI TRANSPARENCY REPORT

2013/14

Core Capital Management, LLC

About this report

The PRI Reporting Framework is a key step in the journey towards building a common language and industry standard for reporting responsible investment (RI) activities. This RI Transparency Report is one of the key outputs of this Framework. Its primary objective is to enable signatory transparency on RI activities and facilitate dialogue between investors and their clients, beneficiaries and other stakeholders. A copy of this report will be publicly disclosed for all reporting signatories on the PRI website, ensuring accountability of the PRI Initiative and its signatories.

This report is an export of the individual Signatory organisation's response to the PRI during the 2013-14 reporting cycle. It includes their responses to mandatory indicators, as well as responses to voluntary indicators the signatory has agreed to make public. The information is presented exactly as it was reported. Where an indicator offers a response option that is multiple-choice, all options that were available to the signatory to select are presented in this report. Presenting the information exactly as reported is a result of signatory feedback which suggested the PRI not summarise the information. As a result, the reports can be extensive. However, to help easily locate information, there is a Principles index which highlights where the information can be found and summarises the indicators that signatories complete and disclose.

Understanding the Principles Index

The Principles Index summarises the response status for the individual indicators and modules and shows how these relate to the six Principles for Responsible Investment. It can be used by stakeholders as an 'at-a-glance' summary of reported information and to identify particular themes or areas of interest.

Indicators can refer to one or more Principles. Some indicators are not specific to any Principle. These are highlighted in the 'General' column. When multiple Principles are covered across numerous indicators, in order to avoid repetition, only the main Principle covered is highlighted. This results in some Principles not being explicitly highlighted. For instance, Principle 1 and 2 cannot be implemented without implementing Principle 3, but there are cases when Principle 3 is not explicitly highlighted.

All indicators within a module are presented below. The status of indicators is shown with the following symbols:

Symbol	Status
✓	The signatory has completed all mandatory parts of this indicator
☑	The signatory has completed some parts of this indicator
🔒	This indicator was not relevant for this signatory
-	The signatory did not complete any part of this indicator
Ⓜ	The signatory has flagged this indicator for internal review

Within the table, indicators marked in blue are mandatory to complete. Indicators marked in grey are voluntary to complete.

OA 01.1 Indicate if you have a responsible investment policy.

OA 01.2 Indicate if you have other guidance documents or more specific policies related to responsible investment.

- Yes
- No

The research we pursue and utilize ultimately results in the decisions made and actions taken for clients based on fundamental principles of practice, namely, sustainable responsible investment (or ESG), environmental, social and corporate and public governance, most simply called sustainable investing (SI). The phrase sustainable investment incorporates not just a values perspective but also an approach dedicated to selecting investments based on their ability to survive long-term market and economic conditions. The approach involves two primary aspects:

"The first is that the best way of generating superior risk-adjusted returns in the 21st century is to fully incorporate long-term environmental, social and economic trends within investment and ownership decision-making. The second is that achieving global sustainability requires the mobilization and recasting of the world's capital markets." [i]

Because SI is aimed at these two fundamental levels of activity, it provides an approach for both purely financially motivated investors who want to reduce risk and benefit from the returns, as well as organizations, including societies as a whole, whose agenda is to work toward social and environmental progress. SI thus encompasses the increasing numbers of investors who wish to incorporate these values in the ways their savings and investments are allocated, along with the rising tide of institutional investors who appreciate the growing financial materiality of environmental, social and corporate and public governance factors. In addition are those investors who wish to make investments in companies that pursue solutions for capital growth by solving the problems related to the increasing environmental constraints on all market activity. Sustainable investing is therefore based on a commitment to systematically integrate environmental, social and economic factors within the valuation and choice of assets and the exercise of ownership rights and duties.[ii]

Environmental

We seek opportunities and organizations that provide strategies for solving environmental issues through their products and services, as well as those that improve their policies to protect and preserve the environment, and create efficiencies within their organization to reduce their overall environmental impact.

Social

We seek organizations that provide positive impacts on society as a whole, and whose activities treat their employees responsibly, respectful of the communities in which they operate, and demonstrate good social citizenship.

Corporate Governance/Management

We seek organizations who are transparent about the activities, operate an ethical manner, and are fair and diverse in their structures and policies.

LEI 03.2	Describe your primary reasons for choosing a particular ESG incorporation strategy.

Since 1950 there has been an accelerated increase in global population, urbanization, wealth (standards of living), and ecological debt (resource depletion beyond Earth's ability to regenerate). These events have led to greater consumption of all products and services requiring greater inputs, an exponential increase in demand of finite natural resources, and heightened competition over diminishing supply.

CCM believes that investing in companies that pursue solutions for capital growth by solving the problems related to the increasing environmental constraints on all market activity, that are well-managed organizations with strong governance policies, and respectful to their employees and communities in which they operate will generally contribute positively to long-term investment returns. Conversely, poorly-managed companies having negative ESG policies and practices are more likely to increase the risk of investment return over the long-term.

LEI 03.3	If assets are managed using a combination of ESG incorporation strategies, describe briefly how these are used in combination. [Optional]

ESG: Integration involves considering environmental, social, and corporate governance issues in investment-making decisions with the aim of influencing the financial performance of portfolios. We incorporate ESG process through exclusionary screenings, positive screenings, themed investments, active ESG strategies, passive ESG biased and weighted strategies. ESG scoring of companies is an integral part of our equity research, including weights applied to key performance indicators to generate positive and negative screening results.

Thematic: Global reaching entities who help solve issues, responsibly improve living standards, and are profitably contributing to the world's sustainably through the following thematic impact areas of focus: Agriculture and Land (Food), Water and Waste, Energy& Renewables, Healthcare and Wellness, and Technology.

CCM tracks many types and forms of guidance including prices, geopolitical issues, business cycles, and the information providers (analysts, researchers, economists, authors, services) whose sole function is to interpret how markets affect investment decisions in both general and specific ways. In addition, Core Capital's research process involves tracking and analyzing on a daily basis asset prices, macroeconomic events, business cycles, global markets, individual companies, private investments, real estate and other offerings based on multiple screens and techniques. Core Capital utilizes existing metrics and our own evaluation methodologies, a process that allows us to compare results and base our decisions on those comparisons, the most important of which involve CCM's operating philosophy and process.
